Recovered His Horse.

Great was the grief of Judge Jacob G. Post a few weeks ago upon discovering that his gray horse was missing. He immediately notified the police of every town and city for miles around, but day after day passed and no tidings were received of the missing steed. Every time the Judge had occasion to visit the stable he would gaze sadly at the vacant stall and his heart would feel sore. But now everything is changed. The Judge has regained his old-time smile, for he has found his gray horse. And this is the way it came about. The Judge came to THE CITIZEN office and ordered a lot of circulars printed. He then mailed one to every postmaster in New Jersey. On Tuesday he received a telegram from the postmaster at Westfield, saying that a stray horse was in that town. Investigation proved it to be the Judge's property, and it was brought home. The Judge does not think that the horse could have strayed from this town to Westfield, but believes it was stolen.

The Fire Indicators.

At a special meeting of the Town Committee held yesterday afternoon it was decided not to purchase the indicators which have been in the fire houses for the past year, and the Gamewell Company will be requested to remove them. This action of the Committee evoked considerable discussion among the members of the Fire Department last night.

Many of the firemen, who live some distance from the fire-houses, claim it will be impossible for them to determine where a fire is located in the night, as it is difficult to count the strokes of the bell. Heretofore they would proceed to the house, learn the number of the box from whence the alarm was given, and then go direct to the fire. They think that by taking out the indicators the efficiency of the Department has been lessened.

Needs and Wants

Man needs but little here below,
But wants a great deal more;
He needs two overcoats and suits,
But wants to own a clothing store.

The wants of mankind are like the census of a great city. The realization seldom comes up to the expectation. The difference between a man's wants and his needs, if turned into ready cash, would make a respectable campaign fund.

OUR SPECIAL BUSINESS

Is to study the wants of mankind in the clothing line. And under our system of doing business a man can have what he wants for about what he would pay for what he needs if it were not for our enterprise.
